

Date:

1450

---

Identifier:

T0770

---

Description:

Ancient Southwest pottery reached a pinnacle with the Sikyatki style with its exuberant color, meticulous polishing, and perfection of shape and decoration that distinguish the style from its antecedents. The bowl features a figure like a katsina, one of the Pueblo spirit beings who help to regulate the forces of nature, while the jar's design may refer in part to a bird.

---

Physical dimensions:

diameter 14.875 in ; height 9 in

---

Format:

Jar

---

Coverage:

Arizona ; Sikyatki

---

On Loan to Other Museums

American Indian Art

Add to selection

---

Source URL: <http://collections.fenimoreartmuseum.org/sikyatki-jar#comment-0>